An Effective Student Success Plan is Built Around 3 Core Components

1. Academic Development

Student interest and aspiration are the basis for the development of a student's academic program. A planned academic program will lead to the acquisition of skills, knowledge, and attitudes needed to be an effective learner in school and across the life span. The SSP is designed to ensure that students complete their secondary education with 21st Century Skills necessary to compete in the global economy.

2. Career Development

The student will investigate their own interests and abilities as they relate to the world of work in the dynamic global economy. The customized plan will include varied and flexible educational opportunities, personal connections, and elective coursework, with targeted supports tied to each students' education and/or career goals. The SSP helps to guide students through their secondary education onto post-secondary training and allows them to make better choices with the academic foundation to achieve their career and personal goals.

3. Social/Emotional Development

The SSP supports positive social, emotional, and physical development, allowing students to more fully engage in the school environment and take the risks necessary for optimal academic performance. Student success can be seen in positive interpersonal relationships, managing feelings/emotions, engaging behaviors that promote positive health, appreciation for others, needs, and embracing opportunities for academic, career, and post-secondary success.
